DAN GUSSET'S BEARD STROKING CORNER

Hello kiddies! In the interest of open and transparent goatvernment I thought I better make an effort to explain some of what's going on behind the scenes in the Laboratory. The first announcement is that as of the April Lab (18th April, with Syntheme, in case we haven't mentioned that enough already) we are going to put the door price up by one pound. This will keep us in-line with other weekend events at the Croft and will mean we will be able to afford even more awesome acts, more variation, and generally better entertainment for you! Because you're worth it, my precious little goat kids.

Secondly, I need to explain a bit about our objectives. Whilst celebrating everything new, exciting and danceable in electronic music, we also have some other things we'd like to shout about. Whilst Anakissed brings exciting live visual manipulation to the parties (as will other VJs in time), and Anarchist606 reminds us of our political backdrop and what we can do about changing it, I'd like to grow my beard even bigger and waffle about art and media as an evolving form. Or something. To be honest, I haven't decided exactly how to go about this yet, but I know I want to get some cool interactive audio/visual art for you to play with. On our current budget the best we've been able to do is to set up the retro video arcade for you, but we promised you installations and so there will be installations. The kind of thing I'd like to experiment on you with are things link the crazy wooden block sequencer Beat Blocks (<http://tinyurl.com/277e2r>) or the downright headfck of the Rubik's Cube controlled sequencer (<http://tinyurl.com/2yc4x8>) both of which unfortunately reside a long way overseas. I'm looking for similar cool things closer to home for you. I'd also like to get some Goatography into The Croft for the evening. So I'd like to see your photographs and videos from Goatlab parties and of anything else goaty. There's a Flickr Pool here: <http://www.flickr.com/groups/goatlab/> Feel free to contribute. Please send me links and photos and videos and any comments you may have on what would blow your mind out of your K'ed up head when you're here. I'd love to hear from you. Cheers, Dan gusset@gmail.com

A WORD FROM ANARCHIST606

New Labour (aka Neo-Labour). The government. We have got used thier genocidal wars (in Iraq), the crappy war of terror, privatisation and being cosy with big business. What is so sad is that what was, 100 years ago, a people party, the party of the unions, of grass-roots issues like health and housing and now it comes to this: The Neo-Labour minister Kim Howells has his photo taken in Colombia with a group of troops linked to the murder of trade union and human rights activists. See the picture and more, here; <http://anarchist606.blogspot.com>
